

The background features a collage of various icons related to web development and technology. These include a hand cursor pointing at a screen, a globe, a target, a magnifying glass, a keyboard, a document with a checkmark, a smartphone, and a laptop. The icons are rendered in a grayscale, semi-transparent style, creating a layered effect.

- EPISODE #417 - Jun 16, 2013 - 57 comments
Foundation
ZURB's Foundation is a front-end for quickly building applications and prototypes. It is similar to Twitter Bootstrap but uses Sass instead of LESS. Here you will learn the basics of the grid system, navigation, tooltips and more. (11 minutes)
Buttons: Watch Episode, Read Episode
- EPISODE #416 - Jun 03, 2013 - 38 comments
Form Objects
Models have a tendency to become a complex mess as an application grows. In this episode you will learn a couple of techniques to extract form-behavior out into its own class. (18 minutes)

- EPISODE #115 - May 13, 2013 - 32 comments
Model Caching (revised)
Caching at a low level is a great option when the view is too dynamic to cache and you need something flexible that can work anywhere in the application. Here I show a variety of ways to use Rails.cache with Active Record. (12 minutes)

On the right side of the page, there are two sidebar sections:

- View: A dropdown menu showing a list icon.
- Types: A list of links: Free Episodes, Pro Episodes, Revised Episodes.
- Categories: A list of links: Active Record, Active Resource, Active Support, Administration, Ajax, APIs, Authentication, Authorization, Background Jobs, Caching, Code Walkthrough, Controllers.
